Featured Saint of the Week

St. Rose Venerini (1656-1728)

Feast: May 7

Rose Venerini was one of 5 children born into a family deeply rooted in Viterbo, Italy. At the age of 7, she made a vow, consecrating her life to God. When she reached 20, her father suggested that she enter the Dominican Monastery of St. Catherine.

She did enter but had to leave several months later when her father died; she had to return home to take care of her mother. After her mother died, she started inviting young women and girls into her home to pray the rosary. She soon learned that these females were victims of cultural, moral, and spiritual poverty. Because of her disappointment with women's education, she then realized that her vocation was to be in the field of teaching.

Rose soon became a pioneer in women's education. She founded the first public schools for young women and girls in Italy. She had some difficulties getting a school started in Rome but eventually succeeded, eliciting praise from Pope Clement XI, who said, "Signora Rosa you are doing that which we cannot do. We thank you very much because these schools will sanctify Rome." Schools sprang up across Italy.

Rose died in Rome on May 7, 1728.

After her death, her confraternity of teachers was raised to a religious congregation status, called the Religious Teachers of Venerini. The work of the Venerini sisters extends throughout the world with both schools and daycares.

She was beatified in 1952 by Pope Pius XII. In 2006, Pope Benedict XVI canonized St. Rose. He praised her work, and at one point said: "Wherever a new school sprang up, in a short time a moral improvement could be noted in the youth."
